The death of no man in this country out of highest office could have created so profound a sensation in this republic as that of General William T. Sherman. Indeed, of all men who have lived in the fervid life of the last three decades of American history of none except President Lincoln and General Grant could it be said that the entire nation bowed at his bier. One of the few great generals of the late war, he is almost the last of the brilliant command on land and sea who upheld the union cause. Grant, Farragut, Sheridan, Hancock, Thoma Porter and many more have ceased from their labors. It only remains to express the public sorrow and anticipate the judgment of history.

Belonging to a family which produced several ious men, serving in generous rivalry with some of the grandest men in modern his tory, in all he did he bore himself so well as to and the admiration of his countrymen. His patriotism, his genius in war, his citizen ship in a period of great trial—these are known to all men, and his name, linked with the names of Lincoln and Grant, will descend to the lates

The Senate in its action upon the District ap propriation bill in relieving the District of any of the expense of the maintenance of the Zoo-logical Park rendered only the barest justice to the District, and it is to be hoped that there will be no difficulty in securing the adoption of the amendment by the conference committee While there has been decided objection made to the middling of half the expense of the purchase of the Zoo (which is simply an annex to the Smithsonian Institution) upon the taxpayers of the District, the main protest has been against loading upon the District a permanent tax for the maintenance of the park the purchase of monkeys and the support of the astronomical and other purely scientific features proposed to be established there by the Smithsonian Institution.

The raid of the anti-reformers on the civil service commission was continued yesterday with small effect. The House finally decided to give the commission $36,400 to be used in a way to give effect to the law, and no more technical objections avail to cripple through quibble the cause of the reform. The debate really turned on the merits of the system, although some of its enemies worked their pop guns behind professions of zeal in carrying out the mere words of the civil service statute. The arguments of the spoils men throughout were weak and inconsistent one with another. Mesers. Butterworth, McComas, Greenhalge, Lodge and Boatner presented the other side with force. which amounted practically to conviction in the light of the first action of the House. The commission comes out of this fight, as it has come out of previous contests, with its banners flying. The enemies of civil service reform have beaten their tom toms and discharged their stage lightning, and are no nearer getting their desires than before. Civil service reform has come to stay.

The London (Can.) Chronicle publishes a ghost story about how Mr. Blaine in 1880 dur-ing the Garfield-Hancock contest made a tour of Canada, sounding the representative men on commercial and political union and went into Garfield's cabinet as an annexationist, and that divide, he really hasn't time, don't you know. to bother with Canada just at present. THE EVENING STAR. A NEW IDEA. WHAT DO YOU THINK OF IT! THE W. A. PIERCE & Co.,

719 Market Space,

A SPECIAL MARK-DOWN SALE OF NEW WHITE GOODS OF ALL KINDS FOR THREE DAYS, MONDAY, TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY NEVT

When a young lady is introduced into 80-CIETY it is a "tea" or reception, with plenty of refreshments. Now ours will be a similar case. We are going to have a three days' OPEN-ING to INTRODUCE our immense assortment of NEW WHITE GOODS to the ladies of Washington. MONDAY, TUESDAY and WEDNES-DAY next will be the "debut" of this department. There will NOT be any refreshments, but instead, as a special introduction attraction. we will make a big MARK DOWN in these fresh, new and desirable goods.

A PEW TESTIMONIALS:

Will you please allow me to say that the Fischer Plano which we purchased from you about three years are has given perfect astisfaction. It still retains its purity and strength of tone. The sustained sweetness of the instrument has been very much of a surprise to us, and were we again without a piano we should be constrained to purchase a "Fischer."

Pastor of the First Baptist Church The two Fischer Planes which I purchased from you have given entire satisfaction in tone and touch. One of them has been played on almost continuously for two years, and I am so well pleased with its durability that I propose buying another. Very truly yours.

The Fischer Upright Piano which I purchased from you some two years ago has proved to be all that could be desired. It has stood the test of constant use and variable temperature, and is the admiration of all who use it. I very cordially commend it to all who desire a first-clas, reliable instrument. Yours truly, DONALD B. MACLEOD,

Linen is one of those nooks of trade that you mustn't trust yourselves unaided. There is Linen—and Linen.
All a right to the name because it is all flax—but there's the same difference as between the wiry hirsute appendages of a horse and the rich stlky locks of girlhood.
Second qualities are unsatisfactory and unreliable—se

Second qualities are unsatisfactory and unreliable—so we carry none that are not perfect—good, and from that up to the very finest. You are better satisfied—and if you stop a bit and figure—you are money winners.

We had this matter brought very significantly to our notice the other day. A lady made inquiry as to the price of a certain bit of stock. We told her—as we are always glad to. Whereupon she vowed and declared we were some few cents higher than a contemporaneous house. Now, we don't care a fig how other people conduct their business. Ours is run in the best interests of ourseless—which are OUR CLIENTS: FIRST, LAST AND ALL THE TIME. But our customer was so persistent in her ages. Good judges my that nowhere else in the country can such an INFANTS' DEPART-MENT as ours be found. It is something to have a department where whatever any without worry or inconvenience.
